People v. Christopher Nicholas Little. 26PDJ27. October 20, 2026.

The Presiding Disciplinary Judge approved the parties' stipulation to discipline and disbarred Christopher Nicholas Little (attorney registration number 53770). Little's disbarment took effect October 20, 2026.

Since 2019, Little has owned his own firm and has had sole control over the firm's two trust accounts, including the ability to transfer or withdraw funds. In January 2024, Little began transferring client funds from the law firm's trust account to its operating account to cover office expenses he could not otherwise meet due to poor cash flow. Little made these transfers knowing that some of the funds he took from the firm's trust account had not been earned and knowing that the clients had not authorized the firm to use their funds. Little continued to transfer unearned client funds to the firm's operating account to cover office expenses into July 2026. In January 2026, Little began to transfer unearned client funds to pay his personal expenses, including to buy substances. Further, between January 2024 and July 2026, Little had constructive knowledge that most of the invoices the firm sent to clients contained false information about the amounts the firm held in trust for those clients. As a result, he made material misrepresentations to approximately 100 clients every month for many months.

On July 17, 2026, Little self-reported his improper use of funds to disciplinary authorities. His firm's trust accounts were frozen. At that time, the total balance the firm held in trust was approximately $110,000.00, but the firm should have held in trust approximately $550,000.00.

Through this conduct, Little violated Colo. RPC 8.4(c) (it is professional misconduct for a lawyer to engage in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation).

The case file is public under C.R.C.P. 242.41(a).
